

Download Foreign Direct Investment And The Development Process: The Case Of Greece

Beijing, July 16, 2010 - China has been successful in mobilizing inward Foreign Direct Investment (FDI). Attracted by the country's investment opportunities and by its sheer size and growing domestic market, China received about 20 percent of all FDI to developing countries over the last 10 years and over $100 billion in 2008. Foreign Direct Investment (FDI) FDI refers to the flow of capital between countries. According to the United Nations Conference for Trade and Development, FDI is 'investment made to acquire lasting interest in enterprises operating outside of the economy of the investor.'*The economy of India is a developing mixed economy. It is the world's seventh-largest economy by nominal GDP and the third-largest by purchasing power parity (PPP). A look at the effects of foreign aid from rich countries on developing countries. This article looks at the low quantity and quality of aid from donors.
